

Supply Chain Specialist - Local Content

Brunel are currently working in partnership with a major oil and gas operator to recruit an experienced Supply Chain Specialist in Local Content development to improve supply chain sustainability through increasing local and indigenous content and reducing emissions

- Major Oil and Gas Operator
- Role can be based in Perth (WA) or Brisbane (QLD)
- 12 month contract

Summary

- Publication: PUB296375
- Market: OilGasAndMining
- Industry: Oil & Gas
- Area of expertise: Project Management & Services
- Hours per week: 40
- Education level: Academic Bachelor
- Closing date: Sunday, 27 February 2022

Job

- Create a clear Local Content and Indigenous Content Strategy and drive a step change improvement in our performance and Societal License to Operate
- Create an understanding of Supply Chain Green House Gas emission and develop and implement a strategic roadmap to deliver approved reduction/abatement opportunities
- Explore, define and roll-out opportunities to improve as well as continuously monitor performance
- Develop and Implement the Local and Indigenous Procurement (LIP) Strategy and Roadmap including ownership of overall Governance and Reporting
- Embed the LIP focus and identified Local and Indigenous suppliers in Category Management Strategies
- Develop key skills and capabilities gaps and closure plans for longer term strategic suppliers identified
- Develop Local and Indigenous Procurement training and guidance materials
- Regulatory and internal reporting
- Develop a clear and focused picture of where the Australia Supply Chain contribute to CO2 ambitions and targets for all emission scopes
- Develop and implement a strategic roadmap to deliver approved reduction/abatement opportunities
- Provide a framework and metrics for identifying supply chain opportunities to reduce emissions
- Inspire action from our suppliers, through category and frontline teams, that makes a difference on CO2 emissions
- Work with global teams (CMCP, Supply Chain Sustainability, Legal) to identify contracting process gaps to mitigate exposure to Modern Slavery in the existing supply chains
- Work with business partners to identify potential for modern slavery in entities' operations and develop mitigation plans
- Create supplier development program for suppliers in conforming to Modern Slavery Act and/or exploring better supply chain transparency
- Advise and coach stakeholders on future industry/ supply market trends and local (content) opportunities in order to achieve competitive advantage

About you

Please note: Australian work rights are required to apply for this position. Candidates must be based in Perth WA or Brisbane QLD to be considered.

- Track record of commercial or sustainable development delivery
- A passion for sustainable development and keen to articulate how sustainability creates shared value through supply chains
- Great collaboration and communication skills, and comfortable influencing without authority across geographical and business boundaries
- Good working knowledge of CP systems and comfortable with quickly creating insights from data
- Strategic thinking and strong analytical skills
- Ability to form and sustain inclusive, collaborative, cross-functional teams
- Knowledge or experience working with local content and carbon emissions/CO2 an advantage
- Knowledge or experience working on implementing new legislation requiring influencing multiple internal and external stakeholders

What we offer

- Major oil and gas operator
- Contribute to CO2 ambitions and opportunities to reduce emissions

Feel free to contact

Christine Collins
Account manager
Brunel Energy Australia Perth
c.collins@brunel.net
+61 8 9429 5600